Trial attorney Tony Coleman personally oversees every case entrusted to the firm and can quickly absorb new situations and communicate clearly and effectively with both legal professionals and members of the public; and is constantly focused on resolving legal issues and always looking for ways to improve and evolve processes. He has many honors and accolades to his credit and is dedicated to helping people obtain justice and fair compensation.

He holds a Juris Doctorate from Oklahoma City University and a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from the University of Oklahoma. He is licensed to practice in the U.S. District Court in the Western District of Oklahoma and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 10th Circuit.

Tony worked for the leadership of the Oklahoma State Senate—the first African-American in state history to serve in this capacity and the first to serve three presidents pro tempore of the Oklahoma Senate terms within seven years.

After resigning from the Senate in 2007, he co-founded the law firm of Goza, Washington & Coleman before founding the Coleman Law Firm PLLC in 2012.

Three years later, he became the first African American in state history to win the Clarence Darrow Award in June 2015. Tony Coleman is also the first and only African American to become a member of the prestigious National College for DUI Defense. He is trained in DUI/DWI detection, standardized field sobriety test administration, the Intoxilyzer 3000, 5000, and 8000, and gas chromatography.
